

An Educational Adventure, Enriching Children's Lives Through Field Trips

Education Outbound (EO) is a non-profit organization that provides field trips for children's homes and schools in need in the Massachusetts area. The program is designed to enhance a child's education by introducing them to special places and learnings they may never otherwise be able to experience.

Education Outbound believes that every child should have the chance to encounter a learning experience that inspires, enlightens and provides hope. The goal of the organization is to have an impact on underprivileged children, positively influencing their lives.

EO identifies homes and schools that are especially in need. Then we work with the homes and schools to plan and organize educational field trips that fit within their respective curriculums (following state standards). When finished, we fund and implement the specific field trip.
